President and Cabinet Study Program To Supply Food To Europe and Asia

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—President Truman summoned his cabinet to an emergency session today to consider a far-reaching program for easing the starvation threat in Europe and Asia.

The major decision confronting the cabinet was whether to impose controls that would make new inroads on the American food allotment.

Anything less, officials were convinced would mean failure to meet foreign subsistence demands.

The program was drawn up by Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson, Secretary of Commerce Henry Wallace and Under-Secretary of State Dean Acheson, acting for Secretary of State James F. Byrnes.

A return to individual civilian rationing is not being considered but the other proposals scheduled for discussion are:

1. "Rationing" of flour allotments to bakers for bread, cakes and other bakery goods.
2. Increased production of "whole wheat" flour at the expense of "white" flour to stretch domestic wheat supplies.
3. Curtailment of livestock grain supplies and forced early shipment of animals to market. This would mean more meat in the immediate future but less six months or a year hence.

One high official said the program sought what could be described as a "miracle" in stretching food supplies. But he felt that drastic steps were necessary not only for humanitarian reasons but to preserve prestige of this country's foreign and occupation policies.

The United States has set itself the goal of exporting 6,000,000 tons of wheat and flour to Europe by July 1, or enough to maintain present admittedly inadequate rations. Prospects are that the goal will be missed by 25 per cent if only the less drastic features of the Wallace-Anderson-Acheson program are approved.

Out-and-out bread rationing was not put on the list of suggestions because it was considered "administratively impossible."

President Truman appointed the three-man cabinet committee on Jan. 25 with orders to report back a week later. At the regular cabinet session last Friday, the recommendations proved so detailed (Continued on Page Two)

RAGING SEAS BATTLED TO RESCUE 400 ON SHIP

SEWARD, Alaska, Feb. 5—Seven rescue vessels tossed like chips on heavy seas about the doomed liner Yukon today, struggling to remove more than 400 passengers and crewmen still clinging to the ice-coated forward part of the ship which had broken in two.

The 5,746-ton liner, carrying 371 passengers and a crew of 124, ran aground on the jagged rocks of Johnstone bay, 48 miles east of Seward, during a raging blizzard yesterday.

About 50 terror-stricken women and children aboard the ship were removed from the slanting decks of the vessel by two bobbing rescue craft last night before the liner was battered in two by 22-foot waves which sent their seas crashing high over the ship and coated its decks with treacherous ice.

The rest of the passengers and crew were huddled in the forward part of the vessel which was firmly resting on the rocks. Rescue workers hoped to transfer them to safety today.

The center of the storm had passed to the east.

Oil escaping from the battered liner calmed the seas last night enough for power launches to approach the ship. The frightened women and children were lowered

U. S. SEIZURE OF TUG BOATS EXPECTED SOON

More Union Workers Quit; Sympathy Stoppage Is Ordered In New York

By United Press
Federal seizure of New York harbor tugboats was expected today, as government officials wrestled with the wage-price problem, basic cause of a nationwide strike wave idling 1,546,000 workers.

A labor department spokesman said "machinery already is set up" for government operation of the tugboats, which have lain at anchor since 3,500 AFL crewmen struck yesterday.

Capt. William Bradley, president of the striking local, warned that his men would not return to work, even for the government.

Government seizure appeared inevitable after New York mayor William O'Dwyer failed in day-long efforts to negotiate a wage settlement. New York City was threatened with critical food and fuel shortages.

In other strikes:

1. Fifteen thousand CIO mine, mill and smelter workers left their jobs in Connecticut brass plants, and 5,200 more threatened to join them unless their wage demands were met.

2. Representatives of 175,000 striking CIO United Auto Workers warned General Motors Corp. that they had no intention of relinquishing union security gains won during the past years.

3. Plane production at Consolidated Aircraft, San Diego, Calif., was halted when 3,000 AFL machinists struck to enforce wage demands. The walkout was expected to last several days.

CREW RESCUED FROM SINKING BRITISH SUB

NEW QUAY, Wales, Feb. 5—Nineteen weary and sea-soaked crewmen of the crippled British submarine Universal were taken aboard two lifeboats today after fighting a losing battle against a gale which disabled the engines Sunday night.

The men, who earlier had refused to abandon ship, finally gave up when the gale began driving the vessel toward the notorious Cntry-Cwaelod hidden reefs between Aberystwyth and the Dovey river.

The destroyer Southdown which had been standing by was expected to fire a few shells into the hull of the submarine and sink her. The submarine had been enroute to Newport for scrapping when it was stricken.

During the night the crew sang hymns while spectators knelt on the shore and prayed.

APARTMENTS FOR VETERANS WITH FAMILIES PLAN

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 5—Even if there isn't room for all of them in Coleman Dykes' new "dream" apartment building, he will still have the gratitude of most Knoxville mothers.

Irrked by the refusal of landlords to rent apartments to veterans with families, Dykes announced that he plans to erect a building exclusively for families with at least one child under 16.

He said the building would be on a fenced-in, five-acre site. It will have indoor playrooms and extra wide hallways to accommodate perambulators.

Parisians Find Earth Still Here

Alarmed listeners surged into the streets last night when an announcer said atomic wakes were spreading across the Atlantic from the United States to Paris.

Hundreds converged on the studios of radio Diffusion Francaise and the management appealed for police protection. Police guards were posted around the building.

Mothers hastily assembled children to be with them at the end. Cases of premature births were reported and there were unconfirmed reports of suicides.

Other terrified listeners flooded switchboards of the radio station, newspapers and police with calls. The radio station tried to calm the public with repeated announcements.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—Rep. Wright Patman, D. Tex., said today he hoped to amend his housing bill to provide a $6,000 ceiling on new home construction.

Patman's statement came as the house banking committee prepared to vote on his bill to setup a national housing czar with authority to fix ceilings on both new and used houses. He said the $6,000 ceiling should be in this bill.

COURT RULES ARMY HAS RIGHT TO TRY LEADERS

Yamashita Appeal Turned Down By Supreme Court; Other Rulings

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—The supreme court has upheld the Army's right to bring to trial and punish enemy commanders whose troops were guilty of mass atrocities.

The principle was set in a 6 to 2 decision handed down late yesterday denying appeals by Japanese Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, who was sentenced to hang by a military court for atrocities committed by his command in the Philippines.

The court also rescinded a stay of execution in Yamashita's case, presumably clearing the way for the Army to carry out the death sentence. Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone read the decision.

Yamashita was sentenced by an American military commission at Manila last December 7.

The ruling may go a long way toward establishing the international legal principle being laid down at the Nuremberg trials to the effect that leaders who start wars must pay for their crimes against humanity.

It also may forestall appeals by other Jap leaders now on trial in the Pacific. They include Lt. Gen. Masaharu Homma, charged with permitting the Bataan death march brutalities.

Stone asserted that the military commission had been lawfully constituted and that it had given Yamashita a lawful trial.

Japan, he said, by acceptance of the Potsdam declaration and by her surrender had acquiesced "in

Leading lady of Esquire is the leggy Varga girl, whose curves and attitudes were objectionable to Walker. There also was objection to the magazine's sexy jokes. ## SESSION HELD TO STUDY VETO SOUGHT BY REDS

Stettinius Said Trying To Work Out Compromise On Greek Issue

VISHINSKY MAKES THREAT

UNO Officials Admit Giving Up Hope Of Adjourning Assembly Session

LONDON, Feb. 5—Big five delegates to the UNO met today a few hours before the scheduled reconvening of the security council to face an attempt by Russia to invoke the veto in the Anglo-Soviet dispute over British troops in Greece.

A meeting of the big five in the office of British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin presumably was called to seek a compromise formula to extricate the security council from its first major crisis.

Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., of the United States was prepared to use the meeting in an effort to work out a compromise solution to the Greek issue, it was learned.

An official spokesman for the big five tried to give an impression that the meeting in Bevin's office was called to take up other issues than the Greek problem. But Stettinius was known to intend to try to utilize the gathering for purposes of mediation.

Stettinius, leader of the U. S. delegation, was working hard to arrange a compromise between Russia and Britain that would avert a showdown over the Soviet effort to use the veto power.

UNO officials admitted privately that they have given up hope of adjourning the assembly session Saturday as scheduled, and now were aiming at next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Stettinius assumed the role of mediator in the tense situation between two of the big three powers around whom the whole UNO structure is built. He had until 8:30 p. m. (3:30 p. m.), when the security council meets again, to arrange a face-saving formula.

Delegates obviously were frightened about possible results to the whole United Nations organization if Britain and Russia clashed head-on again tonight, as they did for seven hours yesterday in a tumultuous council session.

The situation this morning stood thus:

Andrei Y. Vishinsky, chief Russian delegate, threatened to veto a proposed resolution that would exonerate Britain of Soviet charges that British troops in Greece threatened international peace.

Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin adamantly demanded a clearcut council decision which would convict or exonerate Britain of the Russian charges. He sought a clean bill of health for Britain.

The basic issue of the Russian-British quarrel was confused by a mass of parliamentary jockeying over security council procedure and the veto right of the big five which had been patched together in ticklish compromises at San Francisco.

When the council adjourned last night, it had before it an Egyptian resolution, the key part of which read:

"And while appreciating that the presence of British troops in Greece in the present circumstances does not constitute a threat to international peace and security, (the council) takes note of the declaration of the delegate for the United Kingdom that British troops will be withdrawn from Greece as soon as the reason (Continued on Page Two)

POLITENESS IS REWARDED WITH GIFT OF NYLONS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 5—Mary Flaherty, a clerk at a hosiery shop, was asked by a woman customer if she had any nylons.

"I'm very sorry, madam," Miss Flaherty replied courteously, "but we haven't seen any nylons here in months."

"Well, young lady," said the customer, taking a pair of nylons from her shopping bag, "I managed to get these down the street. I'm going to give them to you as a present because of the polite way you always turned me down when I asked for some."

SAFFORD ASKED TO BACK CHARGE

Navy Captain Questioned By Pearl Harbor Probers About 'Framing'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—Navy Capt. L. F. Safford was asked today to substantiate his charge that the Army and Navy high command "framed" Adm. Husband E. Kimmel and Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short in the Pearl Harbor disaster.

Safford made the charge in a letter he wrote Jan. 22, 1944 to Capt. A. D. Kramer, who served under him in 1941. It was produced late yesterday during Safford's testimony before congressional Pearl Harbor investigating committee.

Safford said he wrote the letter because he was convinced Kimmel and Short were "framed." He was seeking Kramer's aid in accumulating defense evidence if Kimmel was tried by court martial. The blame for the fact Hawaiian defenses were surprised, as Safford saw it, lay in the high command at Washington.

Safford asked Kramer in the letter to get Adm. W. F. Halsey, Jr., under whom he was serving, interested in Kimmel's case. Halsey had been a task force commander (Continued on Page Two)

HOMMA DENIES GUILT; SAYS HE WAS 'PACIFIST'

MANILA, Feb. 5—Lt. Gen. Masaharu Homma admitted at his war crimes trial today that he traveled along the route of the Bataan death march and saw one "tired and haggard" column of war prisoners moving toward San Fernando.

He denied, however, that he saw any bodies of march victims along the road.

Homma, testifying in his own defense, attempted to shift blame to the Japanese Navy for the bombing of Manila after it had been declared an open city.

He said he did not learn of the declaration until three days after it was announced. He pointed out that Army planes did not fly south of Baguio and that strategic bombing was carried out by Navy planes based on Formosa.

In his opening testimony, Homma declared he was a liberal, broad-minded man who lost his job as Japanese commander in the Philippines because he had been a pacifist.

ICKES SCORES TIDELANDS PLAN

Interior Secretary Urges U. S. Retention Of Oil Land Title

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—Secretary of the Interior Harold I. Ickes told congress today that a passage of a bill giving the states title to oil-rich tidelands would be an "almost unprecedented abuse of legislative power."

Testifying at senate judiciary committee hearings on the house-approved bill, Ickes noted that the supreme court was now considering a federal suit against California's claim to tidelands and warned against depriving it of jurisdiction.

"The result would be bad government, not only because it would be an invasion by the legislative branch of the judicial function, but because it would constitute the waste of a national asset which might some day be crucial to our survival," he said.

The stocky cabinet officer described the issue as a contest over oil between the United States and California. He belittled fears that (Continued on Page Two)

COLUMBUS, Feb. 4—Gov. Frank J. Lausche today sent a letter to Chester Bowles, OPA administrator, adding his protest to that of a Coshooton draft board official who asserted that veterans are unable to buy clothes because the goods are being held off the market.

The governor said that Edward G. Jacobs, a selective service official for the last five years, had written him in reference to a newspaper story which claimed that thousands of suits were being held off the market.

"After reading the article," Jacobs said in his letter, "I am not so sure that I can be proud of serving in the capacity that I have in the past five years since my boys and many others have returned and are unable to buy clothing."

In his letter to Bowles, the governor said:

Traffic Accidents Take 28,500 Lives In 1945; 96,000 Killed In U. S.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5—Traffic deaths took 28,500 lives in 1945 and the rate of such fatalities shot up 36 per cent after V-J day, the national safety council reported today.

The toll from all types of accidents last year, the council said, was 96,000 killed, 10,300,000 injured and financial loss of $5,200,000,000.

Although 1945 saw an end to death on the battlefield, there was a postwar upsurge of accidental deaths on the homefront.

The 1945 accident toll was only one per cent above 1944. But, the council said, the percentage increase was small only because of a reduction in accidents to military personnel.

"Actually," the report said, "figures show that the nation celebrated V-J day by going on a prolonged traffic spree that hasn't ended yet."

As evidence of this, the council pointed out that in the seven final months of war in 1946 traffic deaths rose only 1.3 per cent over the same period of 1944 but from V-J day until the end of the year they jumped 36 per cent.

For the entire year, motor vehicle accidents caused 17 per cent more deaths in 1944, when 24,282 died.

In previous reports, the council blamed increased traffic fatalities on the abandonment of wartime speed limit, careless use of outdated automobiles, thinning tires and a general relaxation of caution.

Vehicle mileage in 1945 was estimated at 16 per cent above 1944, but 25 per cent below prewar 1941. In December, 1945, traffic deaths totaled 3,480—an increase of 27 per cent over the same month in 1944.

Traffic accidents last year caused approximately 1,000,000 non-fatal injuries, of which 80,000 left victims permanently impaired, the council said.

The 1945 toll still was 11,500 under the all-time high of 39,969 set in 1941.

Deaths of children under 5 dropped one per cent last year, but the council recorded a 4 per cent increase in deaths among children in the 5-14 group.

Of the 44 states reporting complete motor vehicle death tolls for 1945, three showed decreases from the previous year and 41 showed increases. Those showing reductions were South Dakota, with 21 per cent and Mississippi and Delaware, both 1 per cent.

Among cities of more than 250,000 population, Oakland, Calif., reported the greatest drop in traffic fatalities, 28 per cent below 1944. Newark, N. J., was second with a decrease of 23 per cent, and Boston third with 18 per cent.

UNO Officials Admit Giving Up Hope Of Adjourning Assembly Session

LONDON, Feb. 5—Big five delegates to the UNO met today a few hours before the scheduled reconvening of the security council to face an attempt by Russia to invoke the veto in the Anglo-Soviet dispute over British troops in Greece.

A meeting of the big five in the office of British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin presumably was called to seek a compromise formula to extricate the security council from its first major crisis.

Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., of the United States was prepared to work out a compromise solution to the Greek issue, it was learned.

An official spokesman for the big five tried to give an impression that the meeting in Bevin's office was called to take up other issues than the Greek problem. But Stettinius was known to intend to try to utilize the gathering for purposes of mediation.

Stettinius, leader of the U. S. delegation, was working hard to arrange a compromise between Russia and Britain that would avert a showdown over the Soviet effort to use the veto power.

UNO officials admitted privately that they have given up hope of adjourning the assembly session Saturday as scheduled, and now were aiming at next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Stettinius assumed the role of mediator in the tense situation between two of the big three powers around whom the whole UNO structure is built. He had until 8:30 p. m. (3:30 p. m.), when the security council meets again, to arrange a face-saving formula.

Delegates obviously were frightened about possible results to the whole United Nations organization if Britain and Russia clashed head-on again tonight, as they did for seven hours yesterday in a tumultuous council session.

The situation this morning stood thus:

Andrei Y. Vishinsky, chief Russian delegate, threatened to veto a proposed resolution that would exonerate Britain of Soviet charges that British troops in Greece threatened international peace.

Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin adamantly demanded a clearcut council decision which would convict or exonerate Britain of the Russian charges. He sought a clean bill of health for Britain.

The basic issue of the Russian-British quarrel was confused by a mass of parliamentary jockeying over security council procedure and the veto right of the big five which had been patched together in ticklish compromises at San Francisco.

When the council adjourned last night, it had before it an Egyptian resolution, the key part of which read:

"And while appreciating that the presence of British troops in Greece in the present circumstances does not constitute a threat to international peace and security, (the council) takes note of the declaration of the delegate for the United Kingdom that British troops will be withdrawn from Greece as soon as the re-

POLITENESS IS REWARDED WITH GIFT OF NYLONS

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 5—Mary Flaherty, a clerk at a hosiery shop, was asked by a woman customer if she had any nylons.

"I'm very sorry, madam," Miss Flaherty replied courteously, "but we haven't seen any nylons here in months."

"Well, young lady," said the customer, taking a pair of nylons from her shopping bag, "I managed to get these down the street. I'm going to give them to you as a present because of the polite way you always turned me down when I asked for some."

(Continued from Page One) sons for their presence have disappeared. Vishinsky opposed this resolution and claimed the right to veto it under the council's charter. He asserted that the question was a substantive one, demanding unanimous approval of the big five. Some others at the meeting called it a procedural question, which could be settled by the votes of seven of the 11 council members, and could not be blocked by a one-nation veto.

The council adjourned without settling this question of procedure. It also left unsettled the question of whether Britain and Russia should be allowed to vote at all, on grounds that the charter forbids council members directly involved in a dispute from voting on its disposition.

Thus the council had these technical questions to decide before it could vote on the fundamental issue: (1) Does it actually have a "dispute" before it? Rulings by the council chairman, N. J. O. Makin of Australia, had left in doubt the question of whether there was a formal dispute before the council and members had not voted on it.

(2) Is the matter one of procedure or substance, and therefore is the veto power applicable? If the council decided that it was considering a formal dispute between Britain and Russia, both powers would be forbidden to vote on a motion settling the fundamental issue.

Among the 496 persons aboard the Yukon were 180 servicemen returning home from duty in Alaska. Mrs. John E. Manders, wife of the mayor of Anchorage, her niece, Carol Treadwell, 9, and Mr. and Mrs. George Marsh, owners of a Marshall, Alaska mine.

The crews of the rescue craft worked all through the Arctic night in the weirdly weaving beams of searchlights aboard the tossing ships in an attempt to transfer the passengers from the hulk of the ill-fated Yukon.

The coastguard cutter, Onondaga, was the first vessel to reach the Yukon. She came within hailing distance of the liner at 6 p. m. EST, nine hours after the Yukon had sent out her first SOS.

The Onondaga was joined by the cutter Cedar, the vessels North Haven and the Henry S. Failing, the Navy salvage ship Curb and the S. S. Zalinski and the patrol boat 107.

But they were powerless to do anything in the face of the raging seas that sent 22-foot waves crashing over their decks. The blizzard which reduced visibility to zero, was accompanied by winds of hurricane force.

The boiling seas foiled all attempts to get a line aboard the liner which lay on the rocks, her stern dipping down into the water. Her position was made even more precarious because of the danger that she might slip off into the water, which is 1,500-feet deep at that point.

When the liner broke in two, the after section rolled to starboard but the forward part, including the salon deck, remaining solidly grounded on the rocks.

The Yukon's captain, Christian E. Trondsen, Seattle, had ordered all persons aboard in the forward part when it became apparent that the vessel was breaking up.

Trondsen reported that no one aboard the vessel was injured when she ran aground about 9 a. m.

The Yukon crashed into the rocks after a rough eight-hour journey from Seward. At first it was thought she suffered only superficial damage and would be floated again at high tide, but as the storm increased in intensity and began to batter the ship, it became clear that she was doomed.

It was Orson Welles' pre-war broadcast of "Men From Mars" all over again.

The broadcast was conducted by Jean Nocher under the title "Platform 70 or the Atomic Age."

It began with a speech supposedly by an American professor describing the process of atomic disintegration.

The professor's speech ceased suddenly without explanation. Listeners were given to understand he had been disintegrated.

Roving reporters described scenes as final disintegration approached. One of these characters said:

"Can our learned men stop this catastrophe? In the streets people are kneeling in prayer. Destruction is drawing near."

The program suddenly was cut off and a soothing voice asked: "Well, you weren't too frightened were you? This was a good joke, wasn't it? This was a production of Jean Nocher."

But the public was not amused and the station had to broadcast and explanation every 15 minutes for the rest of the night. It said:

"Our broadcast on the atomic age has provoked a certain emotion. We want to assure our listeners it was a purely imaginary account."

Nocher, himself, could not be located after the broadcast. It was believed he had left town.

RAIN A WARM WEATHER SLATED TO CONTINUE

The rains came to Pickaway county Tuesday morning, filling cisterns and making country roads muddy, running in streams down gutters, alleys and streets and making walking very wet business.

The downpour was accompanied by the promised warmer temperatures with the mercury falling only one degree from Monday's high of 38 to Tuesday morning's low of 37. Weather Observer Roy Hawkes reported that .25 inches of rain had already fallen at 7 a. m. Tuesday since 7 a. m. Monday, and the rain continued to fall all morning.

Continued mild weather is predicted for Wednesday with occasional showers to add to Tuesday's heavy precipitation. Colder weather may be expected Thursday, however, according to the extended forecast.

Temperature in Circleville at noon Tuesday was approaching 50, in line with way-above-normal February temperatures being enjoyed throughout the Midwest.

Most of the Midwest, in contrast to the New England states, Northern Central states, and South-eastern states, was enjoying unusually mild weather Tuesday.

Intense snowstorm conditions centered this morning in southwest Nebraska and Kansas and a duststorm, accompanied by 57-mile-per-hour winds, was reported in Kansas.

5. Bus service in six Lake county, Ind., towns was halted when AFL employees of the Chicago-Calumet District Transit company staged a "cessation of work" while their union went into executive session to discuss wage demands.

6. Eleven hundred CIO steel workers accepted a 13 1/2 cent an hour wage increase and returned to work at E. C. Atkins and Co., Indianapolis.

7. The Congress of Industrial Organizations ordered its New York city members to stage a two-hour sympathy work stoppage next Monday to "demonstrate the people's determination to protect their living standards." The greater New York CIO council predicted that about 600,000 members would take part.

Meanwhile, Price Administrator Chester Bowles conferred with President Truman yesterday on the wage-price issue. Bowles reportedly is convinced that the solution to the steel and other disputes lies in a new formula that would permit price increases to compensate for wage boosts.

Bowles was said to have asked for a general policy to be applied to all industries and to have demanded that the OPA be allowed to handle price adjustments.

OFFICIALS HUNT 'FIREBUG' AFTER STRAW BLAZES

A "firebug" suspected of setting fire to three straw stacks on the Stone farm in Perry township during December and January is being sought by the sheriff's office.

The sheriff's department has been investigating the suspected cases of arson which have caused damage estimated at $900 in straw destroyed by fire.

One-half of the damage suffered or $450 was covered by insurance. The first rick, burned December 8, and the second rick, burned January 26, contained between 30 and 40 tons of straw each. The third rick, burned January 28, was the largest pile as it contained more than 60 tons.

A representative of the insurance company, which insured the straw, has been following the investigation. To aid in uncovering the perpetrator of the suspected arson, a bloodhound was brought from Charleston, W. Va.

No arrest has been made, but the sheriff's department is convinced that the fires were caused by an arsonist, supposedly one of the "fire-bug" variety, as no motive other than the desire to see a blaze has been uncovered.

CHIANG HINTS HE MAY QUIT AS CHINESE LEADER

CHUNGKING, Feb. 5—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek said today his responsibility to the Chinese people will be finished when the new coalition government has been established.

Suggesting that he may relinquish the leadership he has held since 1927, Chiang told a press conference that he had not thought yet whether he will be candidate for election to the presidency of China.

Chiang revealed at the same time that China is conducting new informal negotiations with the Soviet Union regarding concessions to Russia beyond published terms of the Sino-Soviet treaty.

"That would remove all possible apprehension by the inland states and port authorities and would leave to the supreme court the issue of submerged coastal lands which is pending before it," he said.

"Leases and contracts for operations on submerged lands outstanding when the present suit was filed in the supreme court should be continued in force and effect by the federal government, at least as to royalty rate and time limit."

The house, Ickes said, passed the bill "under the mistaken belief that the law was settled beyond doubt." But the belief that it was in doubt, he said was bolstered by the fact that California's attorney general took three pounds, nine ounces of documents to answer the supreme court suit.

"This is certainly not the type of answer which is ordinarily filed by a defendant who relies upon well-settled law," he declared.

Ickes said the tidelands question involved the nation's ability to defend itself because it concerned "the greatest potential of oil we have."

Justices Wiley B. Rutledge and Frank Murphy, in sharp dissenting opinions warned that the decision might set up a "dangerous" legal doctrine for the future.

"The fate of some future president of the United States and his chiefs of staff and military advisers may well have been sealed by this decision," Murphy said.

In other judgments, the court: 1. Ruled in two cases that OPA ceiling prices are binding on sales made by states, counties or local governments. The suits involved the sale of a tractor by Twin Falls county, Ida., and the sale of timber from school lands in the state of Washington.

2. Held that window washers are covered by the wage-hour laws when working on building in which goods are produced for interstate commerce. The verdict upheld a suit of 24 window cleaners in the Detroit factory area for back overtime pay and damages from the Michigan Window Cleaning Company, Detroit.

3. Ruled out a new trial which the seventh circuit court of appeals had ordered for William R. Johnson, former Chicago gambling house proprietor, and four associates convicted for income tax evasion in 1940. The court ordered the judgments against the men be enforced.

But they were powerless to do anything in the face of the raging seas that sent 22-foot waves crashing over their decks. The blizzard which reduced visibility to zero, was accompanied by winds of hurricane force.
The boiling seas foiled all attempts to get a line aboard the liner which lay on the rocks, her stern dipping down into the water.
Her position was made even more precarious because of the danger that she might slip off into the water, which is 1,500-feet deep at that point.
When the liner broke in two, the after section rolled to starboard but the forward part, including the salon deck, remained solidly grounded on the rocks.
The Yukon's captain, Christian E. Trondsen, Seattle, had ordered all persons aboard in the forward part when it became apparent that the vessel was breaking up.
Trondsen reported that no one aboard the vessel was injured when she ran aground about 9 a. m.
The Yukon crashed into the rocks after a rough eight-hour journey from Seward. At first it was thought she suffered only superficial damage and would be floated again at high tide, but as the storm increased in intensity and began to batter the ship, it became clear that she was doomed.

RAGING SEAS BATTLED BY MEN

Earl C. Reed, Democrat of Ashville, and H. E. Lewis, Republican of New Holland, have filed petitions of candidacy for the office of general assemblyman with the Pickaway county election board.
Two Republicans have filed for the position as county central committeemen. They are A. J. Lyle, 154 West Mound street, and C. W. Hays, Williamsport.
The filing by the four men brought the total of candidates in the May primaries who have filed so far to five. Lyman Penn, Republican of route 1, had filed previously as a candidate for reelection as county commissioner.
Deadline for filing petitions is Wednesday. A big rush is expected at the election board office for the last day of filing.
Although several important county positions must be filled, the political pot has been boiling very slowly. No one has yet filed for common pleas judge, although a Republican attorney has shown interest in the office. Judge Emmitt L. Crist, a Democrat, has indicated that he will not run for the office, and plans to resume regular practice at the end of the year.
A Republican, Fred L. Tipton, Williamsport, and James "Link" Brown, Democrat of Ashville, have both announced that they will be candidates for the county auditor post, although neither has yet filed his petition.

ments that the broadcast was "purely imaginary" but listeners were hard to convince.

It was Orson Welles' pre-war broadcast of "Men From Mars" all over again.
The broadcast was conducted by Jean Nocher under the title "Platform 70 or the Atomic Age." It began with a speech supposedly by an American professor describing the process of atomic disintegration.
The professor's speech ceased suddenly without explanation. Listeners were given to understand he had been disintegrated.
Roving reporters described scenes as final disintegration approached. One of these characters said:
"Can our learned men stop this catastrophe? In the streets people are kneeling in prayer. Destruction is drawing near."
The program suddenly was cut off and a soothing voice asked: "Well, you weren't too frightened were you? It was a good joke, wasn't it? This was a production of Jean Nocher."

But the public was not amused and the station had to broadcast and explanation every 15 minutes for the rest of the night. It said:
"Our broadcast on the atomic age has provoked a certain emotion. We want to assure our listeners it was a purely imaginary account."
Nocher, himself, could not be located after the broadcast. It was believed he had left town.

RAIN A WARM WEATHER SLATED TO CONTINUE
The rains came to Pickaway county Tuesday morning, filling cisterns and making country roads muddy, running in streams down gullies, alleys and streets and making walking very wet business.
The downpour was accompanied by the promised warmer temperatures with the mercury falling only one degree from Monday's low of 35 to Tuesday morning's low of 37. Weather Observer Roy Hawkes reported that 25 inches of rain had already fallen at 7 a. m. Tuesday since 7 a. m. Monday, and the rain continued to fall all morning.
Continued mild weather is predicted for Wednesday with occasional showers to add to Tuesday's heavy precipitation. Colder weather may be expected Thursday, however, according to the extended forecast.

Temperature in Circleville at noon Tuesday was approaching 50, in line with way-above-normal February temperatures being enjoyed throughout the Midwest.
Most of the Midwest, in contrast to the New England states, North Central states, and South-eastern states, was enjoying unusually mild weather Tuesday.
Intense snowstorm conditions centered this morning in southwest Nebraska and Kansas and a duststorm, accompanied by 57-mile-per-hour winds, was reported in Kansas.

MISS HART
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hart, of 228 East Franklin street, became the parents of a daughter Tuesday morning in Berger hospital.

pected to spread to company plants at Nashville, Tenn., and Fort Worth, Tex.

4. Scuffling between CIO steel worker pickets and non-strikers flared briefly at steel plants in Milwaukee and Janesville, Wis., yesterday. No one was injured.
5. Bus service in six Lake county, Ind., towns was halted when AFL employees of the Chicago-Calumet District Transit company staged a "cessation of work" while their union went into executive session to discuss wage demands.
6. Eleven hundred CIO steel workers accepted a 13 1/2 cent an hour wage increase and returned to work at E. C. Atkins and Co., Indianapolis.

7. The Congress of Industrial Organizations ordered its New York city members to stage a two-hour sympathy work stoppage next Monday to "demonstrate the people's determination to protect their living standards." The greater New York CIO council predicted that about 600,000 members would take part.
Meanwhile, Price Administrator Chester Bowles conferred with President Truman yesterday on the wage-price issue. Bowles reportedly is convinced that the solution to the steel and other disputes lies in a new formula that would permit price increases to compensate for wage boosts.
Bowles was said to have asked for a general policy to be applied to all industries and to have demanded that the OPA be allowed to handle price adjustments.
In the house, members voted down a proposal by Rep. Emanuel Celler, D. N. Y., to cut off debate on the anti-steel bill, which the New York congressmen said would "shackle labor." The action was taken as evidence that some form of restrictive labor legislation would be passed.

President and Cabinet Study Program To Supply Food To Europe and Asia

that today's special meeting was scheduled for full exploration.

Other points on the program:
1. A shift in wheat allocations already made to spread supplies more evenly. (One government source pointed out that rations in Holland and Belgium are comparatively high in relation to those in Germany, Italy and southeastern Europe, suggesting a possible basis for the shift.)
2. Changes in shipping schedules to move food into the more acute shortage areas.
3. An effort to increase fuel supplies for Argentina so that nation can move more wheat to port.
The cabinet may decide to substitute corn and other more plentiful grains for wheat in the U. S. export quota. While this nation harvested its largest wheat crop in history last year, 10 times normal exports are draining stocks to a minimum.
The U. S. has agreed to attempt to supply 50 per cent of the requirements of needy nations from January to July. Canada's quota is 30 per cent and Argentina and Australia each 10 per cent.

mander under Kimmel prior to Pearl Harbor.
The letter was written in a code Safford had set up. The key for decoding it likewise was provided to the congressional committee.
The letter added a sensational new highlight to previous testimony in which Safford said:
1. That the Army and Navy high command had on Dec. 4, 1941—three days before Pearl Harbor—an intercepted message which revealed Japan's decision for war with the United States.
2. That there is "appearance" of a high command conspiracy to destroy evidence of that message and conceal mistakes which it would reveal.

OFFICIALS HUNT 'FIREBUG' AFTER STRAW BLAZES
A "firebug" suspected of setting fire to three straw ricks on the Stone farm in Perry township during December and January is being sought by the sheriff's office.
The sheriff's department has been investigating the suspected cases of arson which have caused damage estimated at $900 in straw destroyed by fire.
One-half of the damage suffered or $450 was covered by insurance. The first rick, burned December 8, and the second rick, burned January 26, contained between 30 and 40 tons of straw each. The third rick, burned January 23, was the largest pile as it contained more than 60 tons.
A representative of the insurance company, which insured the straw, has been following the investigation. To aid in uncovering the perpetrator of the suspected arson, a bloodhound was brought from Charleston, W. Va.
No arrest has been made, but the sheriff's department is convinced that the fires were caused by an arsonist, supposedly one of the "fire-bug" variety, as no motive other than the desire to see a blaze has been uncovered.

CHANG HINTS HE MAY QUIT AS CHINESE LEADER
CHUNGKING, Feb. 5.—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek said today his responsibility to the Chinese people will be finished when the new coalition government has been established.
Suggesting that he may relinquish the leadership he has held since 1927, Chiang told a press conference that he had not thought yet whether he will be candidate for election to the presidency of China.
Chiang revealed at the same time that China is conducting new informal negotiations with the Soviet Union regarding concessions to Russia beyond published terms of the Sino-Soviet treaty.

the trials of those guilty of violations of the law of war."

Justices Wiley B. Rutledge and Frank Murphy, in sharp dissenting opinions warned that the decision might set up a "dangerous" legal doctrine for the future.
"The fate of some future president of the United States and his chiefs of staff and military advisers may well have been sealed by this decision," Murphy said.
In other judgments, the court:
1. Ruled in two cases that OPA ceiling prices are binding on sales made by states, counties or local governments. The suits involved the sale of a tractor by Twin Falls county, Ida., and the sale of timber from school lands in the state of Washington.
2. Held that window washers are covered by the wage-hour laws when working on building in which goods are produced for interstate commerce. The verdict upheld a suit of 24 window cleaners in the Detroit factory area for back overtime pay and damages from the Michigan Window Cleaning Company, Detroit.
3. Ruled out a new trial which the seventh circuit court of appeals had ordered for William R. Johnson, former Chicago gambling house proprietor, and four associates convicted for income tax evasion in 1940. The court ordered the judgments against the men be enforced.

COUNTY PASTORS HEAR TALK BY CARL C. LEIST

Attorney Carl C. Leist addressed the members of the Pickaway County Ministerial Association on "The Legal and Social Aspects of Marriage," at the meeting in the United Brethren church in Ashville.

After the address, the ministers adjourned to the Ashville Methodist church, where a dinner was served. After the dinner, Mr. Leist led an extended discussion on the subject of his address.

The ministers expressed themselves as vitally interested in helping to preserve wholesome home and family life. They expressed willingness to offer their services and counsel to those who may need it and to cooperate with legal authorities in saving homes from the "tragic results of divorce."

NEW ELECTRIC SHOP IS OPENED IN NEW HOLLAND

A Pickaway county native, Harry K. Armstrong, is opening a modern electrical shop in New Holland.

Mr. Armstrong, a former New Holland resident, is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Armstrong. He returned to New Holland to make his home after 17 years in Detroit, Michigan, where he was affiliated with Cunningham Drug Stores, Inc., becoming director of the soda fountain and food departments of their more than 800 stores.

Illness forced him to take a leave of absence from his work and after recuperating at New Holland he decided to go into business.

Purchasing the former Funk carriage and blacksmith shop, Mr. Armstrong had it completely remodeled as a modern retail display and store room.

The Armstrong store has been appointed dealer-distributor in New Holland, Williamsport and Clarksburg areas for Norge, Hot Point, General Electric, Eureka, Zenith, Arvin, Easy, Sunbeam, Universal and other electric "name" brands.

Mr. Armstrong plans to feature ranges, refrigerators, freeze lockers, hot-water heaters, washers, ironers, irons, radios, record players and makers, vacuum cleaners, kitchen cabinets and sinks, hair dryers, garbage disposal units, razors and many other electrical items.

Besides a complete line of electrical equipment, the shop will have a complete service department to repair and service electrical items. Carl E. Parker, who formerly operated a radio repair shop in Athens, will be in charge of this department.

HOME SHORTAGE TRACED TO 1927

10 Years Will Be Needed To Get Nation Back To Normal, Expert Says

LEWISTON, Ida. (U.P.)—The housing shortage can be traced back to 1927 and it will require 10 years to meet the present demand for dwellings, according to C. L. Billings, general manager of the Potlatch Forests, Inc.

Billings traces this major social problem back to the depression. At that time, due to families doubling up, which they were not willing to do in better times, there was a surplus of houses which continued up to the advent of the war. This surplus of houses discouraged much new building in the late 30s except in areas which were growing rapidly in population.

When the war came, home building was discouraged save where it was needed in war production centers, and in the late war years home building elsewhere was virtually prohibited. With improved conditions, families which have lived together have separated and gradually housing vacancies have declined to a low point. As houses became scarce, prices rose and the owners, remembering the lean years, looked for buyers instead of tenants.

The renter either became the owner or was forced to move. "During the next 10 years 6,000,000 dwellings will have to be built to meet arrears and increased population," says Billings. "Population has outstripped new building."

Do YOU Own A "Scratching" Dog?

Does your dog constantly scratch, dig, rub, and bite himself—often until his skin is raw and sore? He may be perfectly clean and flea free, but suffering from an intense itching irritation that has centered in the nerve endings of his skin. He is in torment and can't help scratching—unless you try to help him. Try giving him Rex Hunters Dog Powders, once each week, and note the quick improvement. One owner writes: "If my dog could talk I know he would say thanks for Rex Hunters Dog Powders. He was raw and sore from scratching and just lay around. Now he plays and is full of pep." Ask for Rex Hunters Dog Powders at any good drug store, pet or sport shop. Only 25c. (Economy size box only $1.00).

The millions of man-hours and the millions of dollars expended by the Norfolk and Western Railway in "the Everlasting Quest" for better freight service for its patrons—shippers and receivers of freight between the Midwest and Virginia-Carolina—is paying dividends in tomorrow's faster freight schedules—now.

These new schedules are the result of study, experimentation, experience, planning and research—all down the line—at headquarters—in the field—and in the laboratory.

To you this freight service means faster, safer, more economical shipment of your merchandise.

To the Norfolk and Western it is one of the results of long, arduous years devoted to improvement of service.

The Norfolk and Western and the other railroads of America are awake, alert, progressive. By constant research, study and improvement the Norfolk and Western will continue to forge ahead—always offering its patrons the last word in Precision Transportation.

LABOR AND POWER

It takes a little shake-up in what we have proudly called "The American System" to remind us of some facts and realities often forgotten. Our nation has long moved in such gentle grooves of life and work and public control that recent generations have almost forgotten there could be serious and important changes, public and private, in our national structure. We have boasted of being the most solid and substantial of nations, the one great people that stood like a rock for its ancient principles, government and methods of national operation, and have assumed that this status would last indefinitely.

Our basic principles are still unshaken, but we are learning some new lessons along modern lines. They are to the general effect that the world does move and change in these days, more than we have realized, and that presumably it may change still more before our rock-ribbed nation settles down again for a new period of stability—perhaps along some new and unaccustomed lines.

It could hardly be otherwise, in a world of new forces, including such starting changes as atomic bombs in warfare, and a form of interstellar communication with the far distant moon, and—of much greater human importance—the rather sudden rise of the so-called "working classes" of our society to new positions of power.

The natural question now is, how they will use such power. Presumably they will come in time to use it in the democratic American manner, realizing that we are "all in the same boat", and in the Scriptural phrase, "members one of another".

A THOUSAND TIMES YES

A San Francisco industrialist recently returned from Tokyo said Gen. MacArthur told him the United States now has bombs equal to 20,000,000 tons of TNT, or 1,000 times more powerful than those dropped on the two Japanese cities.

This makes it a thousand times more important that UNO arrive at some practical method for keeping another war from breaking out.

RUSSIAN TROUBLES

DEMobilization troubles are not confined to the United States. Behind her bold front at international conferences, Russia is having difficulties too. In Stalin's own province of Georgia, and in Rostov-on-the-Don, half of the soldiers let out of the army last June are still unemployed. At Taganrog the army had to "intervene in order to ease the situation." This masterpiece of understatement comes from the Russian official newspaper, Pravda. With all our troubles about service men who want to go home, we have had nothing like that.

Russia is having production trouble too, but that is another story.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—Politics is warming up. The young men and women are coming back from foreign fields plainly displeased at the way things are going. Some tell me Uncle Sam is known in many foreign nations as "Uncle Sugar." They tell of waste, inefficiency, or throwing our money around, and talk of getting into politics. The ballot lists this fall will contain a lot of veterans who think they can do something in congress, if they get home in time. Certainly the group displeasure of this 12,000,000 voting mass, now fairly well congealed in ideas, threatens a complete overturn of existing legislative personalities—if not the whole political complexion of affairs.

Scouting opportunity, the Republicans are getting busy. The national committee has, for the first time, assumed responsibility in the congressional campaign (committees of congressmen usually head the effort.) The staff at headquarters has been about trebled to create 11 departments, one of which has started a monthly newspaper with a circulation to date of 230,000. A state quota system of raising money (like the Red Cross) has been started, and a small contributions mail campaign has been launched, in order to take financing away from the gentlemen of bulk contributions, known in the political trade as "fat cats."

All this has been done by Gov. Dewey's man, Herbert Brownell, Jr., the committee chairman, who says his drive is to "elect a republican congress."

I hear, incidentally, Dewey has told friends he is not in the running for 1948. He points out to them that Republicans have never in history renominated a defeated candidate, which was news to me. Dewey would like the nomination apparently, but does not expect it. Personally I expect much will rest on whether he is re-elected governor this year. Last time he won against a split, and it is possible he will have more formidable opposition this time. If he wins, it will be said no one could have beaten Roosevelt in a war year, and he will be back in the running.

The Stassen grasp for leadership is finding form, in the way of organization and money. A St. Paul man is on the road traveling for him. The same man was high in the Willkie entourage, and there are further indications that the New York crowd which backed Willkie already has its hand in pocket for the former Minnesota governor to be next President. They have been conspicuous at the speakers tables where Stassen spoke. A weekly magazine has published a report that the ex-Lord and Taylor executive, Walter Hoving, who was active in the last Dewey headquarters, will eventually play Hanna for Stassen. The Cowles brothers, publishers, appear to be running the invisible bandwagon so far, particularly Brother Mike in Iowa. My Republican sources say he has been hiring people.

All this inside activity has caused many who have observed it to surmise that Stassen will keep on his speaking tours (he has not yet taken a job that I have heard), the organizing will increase in tempo and when the Gallup polls start, Stassen will be on top. Many think he will remain there.

My own opinion is he will have his main trouble keeping in the limelight without a political office, now that he has started so early. Willkie killed himself doing it.

Diseases Responsible For Lessening of Sugar in Blood

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WHEN there is less sugar in the blood stream than there should be, the patient will have such symptoms as restlessness, weakness, hunger, trembling, sweating, chilliness, rapid heart beat and drowsiness in the milder cases.

A lessening in the amount of sugar in the blood is not a disease in itself, just as fever is not a disease. It is merely a symptom that something is wrong which demands attention. If the condition becomes more severe there are headache, sickness to the stomach and vomiting, twitching of the muscles, double vision, temporary paralysis, convulsions and unconsciousness.

Once it is decided that hypoglycemia or low blood sugar is present and that the symptoms which it produces are relieved by the giving of sugar either by mouth or by injection, a careful study must be carried out to determine, if possible, just what is producing it.

A low blood sugar may be produced by an excessive secretion of insulin by the pancreas. The pancreas forms insulin needed for the use of sugar by the body. This, in turn, may be the result of some tumor growth of the pancreas.

Liver disease, such as liver inflammation, may also be responsible. Trouble with the pituitary gland at the base of the brain may produce hypoglycemia, as may also a lack of secretion from one part of the adrenal glands, which are located just above the kidneys.

Kidney Trouble

In many instances, none of these glandular disturbances is responsible for the hypoglycemia. In such cases it may be due to the fact that sugar is being excreted by the kidneys or the person is engaged in very severe continuous muscular work.

Of course, the treatment for low blood sugar will depend on the cause. If there is a tumor of the pancreas, it may be removed. Certain pituitary gland extracts have been found helpful in some instances as have also extracts from the adrenal glands. In certain instances, the giving of a diet high in sugars and starches has been tried. Some investigators believe that a diet low in sugar and rich in fat may give better results.

However, Doctor Jerome W. Conn of the University of Michigan School of Medicine has found that a diet rich in proteins and low in starches and sugars, is beneficial in some cases of low blood sugar.

A JOB FOR JENNY

by Faith Baldwin

Copyright, 1944, 1945, by Faith Baldwin Cuthbert
DISTRIBUTED BY KING FEATURES SYNDICATE

SYNOPSIS

At the Seaboard Shipyards, young Jennifer Newton, whose late father once owned the place, is replacing attractive Charlotte Granley as secretary to Justice Hathaway, manager and son of the present owner. Justice's wife, Andrea, is engaged in war work in England, where she had gone to live four years before, following the death of their only child. Jenny suspects that Charlotte, who is leaving to join the Waves, is in love with Justice. She is puzzled when Charlotte casually mentions having seen Jenny's pretty sister, Edie, in Boston with Justice a few weeks ago. Edie's husband, Dick, a captain in the Marines, is overseas, and she and Jenny live with their grandmother.

CHAPTER FOUR

THEY WENT back to the office after lunch and Charlotte collected her things. She looked through the desk in her former office, and found it neat and impersonal. She went back to the big office where Jenny was trying to make friends with the files and regarded the desk and the chair and the walls. She looked at the clipper ship models and at the photographs of Mrs. Hathaway and tried to believe that she would never see any of these things, nor this room, nor Justice again.

The door opened and he came in. She hadn't expected him. She had hoped she need not see him.

"Hello, you two," he said. He smiled at Jenny. "Charlotte tell you the worst?" he asked.

Jenny's heart performed a nifty up. It wasn't decent for any man to be so good looking. . . . The old cliché. Tall, dark, handsome. Only very superlative, all three. Every girl was usually a little in love with her boss even if he wasn't as super as this one. She thought, I bet Charlotte was . . . maybe she still is. She thought further, and I am, too—a little . . . even since last winter . . . or even before, when he used to buzz in and out of the personnel office.

She said, smiling in return, "Miss Granley's been very kind."

"Kindness," said Justice, "is one of her outstanding characteristics, together with generosity." He looked at Charlotte. He asked, "Did you tell her what an ogre I am?"

Dracula and Frankenstein's monster in a pleasant but lethal blend?"

"Of course," said Charlotte gravely, "as only a heel would shove a child into traffic without explaining the lights."

Justice's heavy brows drew together and there was open hostility in his regard. Jenny felt uneasy. She thought, what gives? The air was tense with something too intimate and angry for ordinary dislike between employer and employee. Charlotte said, "Well, it's time to shove off." She smiled, adding, "Extraordinary how nautical one becomes, so soon." She looked at Justice. "I'm sorry," she said, "not to have seen Mary again."

That was to annoy him. Charlotte Granley had had very little to do with Justice's younger sister, and she had never called her by her first name—except, of course, to Justice.

"She'll be devastated," he said. "Here, let me walk to the corridor with you."

Jenny waited. She thought, I bet she WAS in love with him. I bet she was. She looked at Mrs. Hathaway's newest picture again. She thought, How in the world a woman could go off and leave a man like this, even if there is a war on?

When Justice came back, his face was flushed and a brooding sort of melancholy darkened it. But, looking at Jenny, his expression cleared. He said, "Well, that's that. Great girl, Charlotte. I suppose we should put up a service star."

He looked at Jenny with sudden defiance, as if she had spoken, and added, "I suppose you wonder why I'm not in it? Well, I'd like to be. But I can't. My father, who has a dozen other interests, scattered all over the face of the country, took it upon himself to buy a shipyard. Then he decided he was too busy to run it. He bought himself a place up here, but rarely lives in it. He attends the directors' meetings and that's about all. He dumped the whole works in my lap. So I'm cleared as essential. It's a wonderful world. My sister runs canteens and labors at the Red Cross and antagonizes the blazes out of a town which won't admit you live here until one day they discover you've been here 40 years and are about to die. My secretary becomes a sailor, my wife barges around England in a uniform, survives blitzes, breaks her arm in a black-out, runs a string of service clubs, and I sit here and—"

"Sorry," he said. "I forgot that I don't know you very well."

"That's all right," said Jenny. "Now I feel that I know you better."

His face cleared and he laughed. "Sit down. How old are you?"

"Twenty."

"Yes, I remember now—but you look about 14. Your sister—" he hesitated a moment—"she's older, isn't she?"

"Four years," said Jenny. She looked at him, her very blue eyes clear and friendly. She said, "I keep forgetting you met her last autumn when the special Red Cross classes met up at the Elton—I mean your place."

She was scarlet.

"See what I mean?" he demanded. "We've lived in that house four years, added wings, stables, a swimming pool and enough landscaping for a summer resort and people like you still call it the Elton place!"

Jenny sat very erect. She said, with spirit:

"You needn't get sore about it, Mr. Hathaway. It's been the Elton place for a couple of hundred years. Maybe more. I used to go there when I was a youngster. Edie practically grew up there. One of the Eltons used to design yachts for us, and several of them were clipper captains. After all, the bank only took over about eight years ago, and it was boarded up until you came along."

"I apologize," he said instantly. "Perhaps, in another 200 years it will be known as Hathaway Harbor, or something. I should live so long! Edie . . . that's your sister's name isn't it?"

"Well, Edith really, after our mother," said Jenny.

"She's very attractive," he went on. "Has she heard from her husband lately?"

"She hears irregularly," said Jenny. "Lots of letters—then gaps. You know how it is . . . he's on one of those dreadful little islands."

Justice said absently, "Too bad." Then he picked up a folder and looked through it. He asked, "What did you tell me your name was—your first name?"

"Jennifer," she said. "There's always been a Jennifer Newton, well, most always. There was a clipper ship named that . . . the Jennifer Newton. No one ever calls me that except Gram, and she does only when she's mad at me."

"Odd Tuesday," said Jenny gravely.

He said, "I'll call you Jenny. Whether I'm mad or not. Odd Wednesdays, shall we say, for my fits of anger. Too bad to have it hang over you on the same day. I've never liked a formal office. Now, do you think you can take some letters for me?"

"If I can't," said Jenny—"and I could last winter, you may remember—Mr. John E. Gregg would be very much astonished, not to say, miffed."

DID YOU ever see anybody make a grand slam without ever taking a solitary trick with a five-card suit headed by the A-K-Q which was in his own hand or the dummy? That is only one of the strange things which have happened in the early weeks of this year. In the particular deal where that occurred, the success of an ordinary finesse against a king was vital to the success of the contract, whereas that mighty diamond suit was completely worthless.

Carleton Proctor, highly imaginative stalwart of New York's Union League club team, reckoned that with his extremely distributed South hand, grand slam would be as sound a venture in one of his black suits—which North fitted the better—as small slam would be in No Trumps. So he made the 7-Clubs bid after dutifully answering the two Blackwood calls of 4-No Trumps and 5-No Trumps.

West opened his singleton heart Q which the K won. It took only brief study to show that success of the contract depended upon the spade finesse working, and that the diamond suit was completely valueless. So to the second trick Mr. Proctor finessed the spade Q and laid down the A. He came to his own hand with a club to the A, then led a third round spade to be ruffed by the club K.

That set up the spade suit, so there was nothing else to do but lead to the club Q, settle West's last trump with the club J, and then lay down his hand.

North had made a badly shaded game-guarantee opening bid of 2-Diamonds, but no harm was done by it, because of Mr. Proctor's terrific distribution and the good fortune of finding the spade K held by West.

Revamping Capitol Will

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—The rain drop splashed down upon the bald pate of the speaker of the House. Outside a storm raged. Startled, the speaker laid down his gavel and glanced up at the ceiling above him. The House roof was leaking again.

And therein lies a story, for Congress has voted to modernize the historic chambers of the Senate and House of Representatives, familiar to generations of Americans since before the Civil War. It has appropriated $1,446,000 for the job. Plans are now being drawn up under the supervision of David Lynn, architect of the Capitol, and construction is expected to get underway in summer.

When the work is completed the House and Senate chambers of the gas-light era will have been completely changed over and the scenes familiar to Abraham Lincoln and a host of historic figures who followed him will have been replaced by fixtures more in keeping with the 20th century.

It is not just the rain that seeps in that disturbs the nation's legislators. Oh, no, far from that. The chief complaint is that you cannot see, hear, or sit well.

Senator Andrews (D) of Florida says the present chambers look like "tobacco barns" because "People who come to the city of Washington now, when they view the Senate chamber, and perhaps the House chamber, go away feeling depressed," he declared.

New Services Subject Of Monday Club Speaker

Mrs. Kennedy Tells About AP and UP Newsgathering

Mrs. Robert Adkins, president, presided at the regular meeting of the Monday club in the trustees room at Memorial Hall, Monday night.

During the business session Mrs. Robert Young and Miss Mary Katharine May were voted to active membership in the club.

"The Associated Press and the United Press" was the subject of an article read by Mrs. Carl Kennedy during the program. Mrs. Kennedy outlined the work of these two newsgathering agencies and spoke of the origin of each.

She told her listeners that the Associated Press differed from the other in that it is a cooperative non-profit enterprise while both the United Press and the International News Service, the other large news agency, are both privately owned and operated for profit.

Through this system of newsgathering the Cincinnati Herald which is a subscriber to the United Press service received the same news and as quickly as any large city newspaper.

The Associated Press, Mrs. Kennedy said, is the original newsgathering medium and it had its origin in a Boston Coffee House in the winter of 1811. But because of the difficulties encountered by the early newsmen, chief of which were the slow means of communication and the cut-throat competition between rival newspapers, it was not until 1848 that a degree of success was attained.

At that time a group of 10 representatives of New York newspapers met and admitted the wisdom of pooling their resources to cover such issues as the Mexican War and big domestic news. This was the real start of the Associated Press. Newspapers who use this service do not pay for it but become members of the association and pay weekly dues which entitles them to the service.

Errors in reporting became boldly apparent in reports made just before the Civil War, she said, and in an effort to correct these inaccuracies, the AP and many individual papers trained reporters to go into the battlefield. In 1862 the first pictures taken on the battlefields were published by the Associated Press newspapers.

At the close of the century the Associated Press became a new corporation, following a long controversy in which some newspapers claimed that they had been discriminated against by the AP.

Washington, D. C. at this time was the news center of America because it was the center of reform, issues, legislation and the era of Theodore Roosevelt. The San Francisco earthquake and fire in 1906 emphasized the need for immediate and abbreviated reporting.

In 1907 the United Press was formed by several press associations in competition with the AP for both foreign and domestic news. Mrs. Kennedy told of the legal battles that these agencies have fought and stated that in 1915 a Supreme Court ruling held that press association reports were protected by copyright law and were not free news. Since the AP has the most extensive news coverage facilities it profited most from the decision.

The United Press being a commercial enterprise soon adopted a policy followed by other news services. The AP however readily reports the "human spectacle", she stated.

A recent U. S. Supreme Court ruling stated that Associated Press reports were to be made available to all newspapers for an Twenty-six members of Mrs. Marion's Sunday School class met at the Business and Professional Women's club rooms in Masonic Temple Monday night with Mrs. Ned Griner, president in charge of the meeting.

Mrs. Herbert Southward was appointed to fill the office of vice president to replace Mrs. F. K. Blair who is leaving soon to make her home in Indiana. Mrs. Blair was the recipient of a gift from the class. At the close of the meeting games were enjoyed and prizes were awarded Mrs. J. Howard Cook, Mrs. Blair and Mrs. Boyce Parke.

At this time announcement was made of the appointment of two committees. Members who comprise the ways and means committee are Mrs. George W. Van Camp, Mrs. Parke and Mrs. George Gerhardt. The visiting committee is made up of Mrs. Roscoe Warren, Mrs. Herschel Hill, Mrs. E. W. Hedges and Mrs. Willison Leist.

Two New Members Join Von Bora Group At Meeting

Sixty members and guests were present when the Von Bora society of Trinity Lutheran church met in the parish house Monday night.

Junior chaplain, Mrs. James Stout, read the scripture lesson and prayer. Mrs. James Carpenter gave the topic study for the month "Except Russia Eat."

Two new members were added to the society, Miss Clarissa Talbot and Miss Mildred Urton.

A motto, "Every Member An Active Member" was adopted by the society. Mrs. Erma Gehres, Mrs. James Carpenter and Mrs. Elmer Wolf were appointed to help formulate plans to aid in this program of the church.

A musical program was presented by Mrs. Alice Sensenbrenner, chairman of the program committee.

Ruth Troutman, Beverly Albright, Darlene Craycraft, Barbara

Buskirk, Carol Leist, Marilyn Winner, Patty Valentine and Nancy Sensenbrenner sang two numbers, "The Bells of St. Mary's" and "I Love a Little Cottage"; saxophone duets, "Londonderry Air" and "Sweet and Low" by Jack Miller and John Rhoads, Jr.; two vocal solos, Mrs. Dudley Carpenter, accompanied by Mrs. Ervin Leist; "Into the Night" and "Prelude" completed the program.

NEWS Behind the NEWS

Bricker is a good bet to come to the senate this year, the knowing Republicans agree. With Stassen he is at the top of private party polls now. His '44 difficulty was that he tried to run a campaign with Ohio friends who had not been active in politics. The Dewey people and the New York know-how. With the best of publicity success in his senate race or later in that forum, his chances will depend on whether he can get an organization to match the one now quickly coalescing behind Stassen—or which Dewey may set up if events this year warrant.

The not-very-dark horse is Taft. The Ohio senator is certainly the outstanding spokesman in the party today. The attack upon him by the Oregon senator Wayne Morse (elected with CIO support) bogged down. There is no senate Republican group associated with Morse, although three or four other Republican senators might vote with him now and then. A CIO movement in the Republican party does not seem to be in the cards.

GALENTO WANTS TO FIGHT LOUIS

Two-Ton Says He Is Ready To 'Stiffen The Bum' In A Free Fight

ORANGE, N. J., Feb. 5—The little fat man still thinks he can chain black lightning.
Tony Galento, the old two-ton guy who now comes closer to weighing three, made that clear today as he challenged Joe Louis to give him another crack at the world heavyweight championship.
"I'll stiffen the bum if he ever gives me another chance," Galento proclaimed with all his old-time modesty.

"I shoulda did it before, too," quoth the man who quit school when he was in "advanced eight grade."
Galento, the belligerent bartender, was very serious. Waving arms that protruded like the flippers on a penguin, the barrel who walks like a man declared that it was a matter of honor. Tony doesn't need the money, it says here.

"I'll fight him for free," Tony roared. "I'm not trying to capitalize (Galentoism) on my fighting" ability. I'll take the bum on for veterans' rehabilitation (more Galentoism)."

Tony, who still trains on beer and fat, black cigars, drew himself five more schooners and admitted he was in "good shape right now." "I been refereein' all over and I play handball every day I'm home here in Orange," Galento preached. "I'm in the pink."

What does Tony weigh? Willie (The Beard) Glitzenberg, his agent, claims the fat man tips the beam at two pounds less than a horse.
"That ain't so, at all," roared Tony. "But I guess I weigh about 270 pounds."

Training Tony is somewhat of a problem, Willie revealed as Tony stepped to the front to help five ragging customers to the sidewalk.

"I had him in the gym and I got him down to 250, once," The Beard sighed. "So that afternoon Tony drinks 18 bottles of beer and eats six southern fried chickens, honest, and he's right back where we started."
That appetite has upholstered an additional 37 pounds onto Tony's beach-ball frame since the June night in 1939 when Galento rocked Louis before being kayoed in the fourth round.

SHAUGHNESSY TO BOSS MARYLAND GRIDDERS AGAIN

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Feb. 5—Clark Shaughnessy, who brought the T-formation to college prominence, returned to the University of Maryland as head football coach today after resigning as Pitt coach.

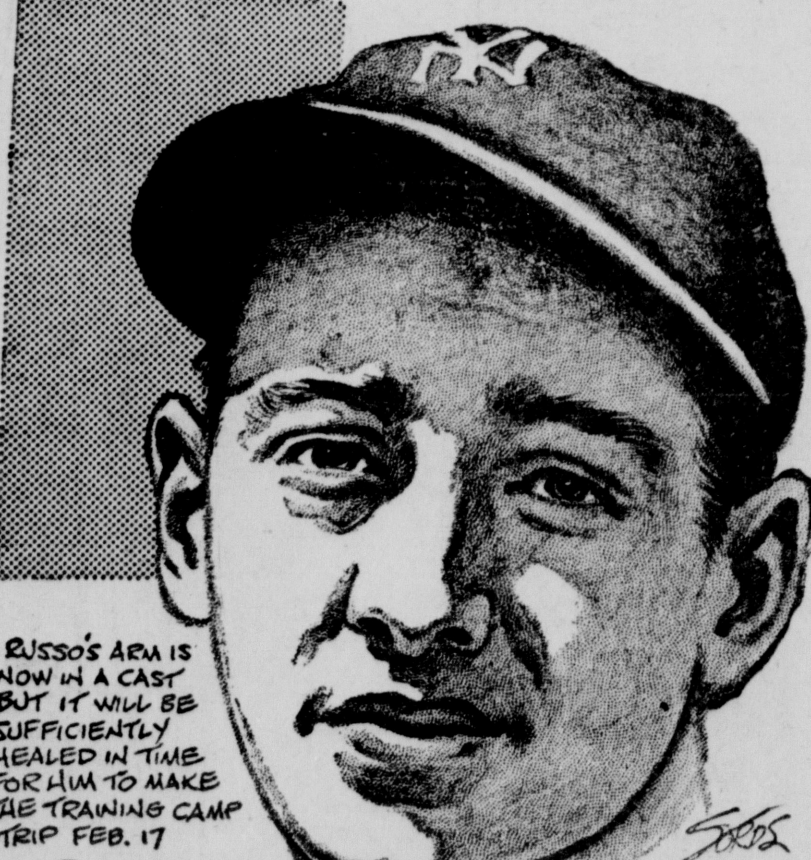

Shaughnessy coached at Maryland in 1942, but moved to Pitt the next season. His tenure at Pitt was a stormy one, and climaxed last fall when Bobby Hoel, Doc Hartwig and Stan Olenn, his assistants, told athletic director Jimmy Hagan they would quit if Shaughnessy continued as head coach. They said Shaughnessy was inconsistent, insincere, impersonal toward the players, and that they disliked his method of teaching.

Maryland officials, who did not reveal the terms or the length of Shaughnessy's contract, said he would arrive Friday for a luncheon meeting with the athletic board and football team, and then would take a two-week vacation.
Spring football will start when he returns.

He will choose his own assistants, a university spokesman said.

TIGERS HOSTS TO ASHVILLE 5 HERE TONIGHT

All-Out Battle Between Old Rivals Expected At Roll And Bowl

Roll and Bowl should be crowded by about 8:15 tonight when Circleville and Ashville high school basketball teams clash.

Records will be forgotten when these two old rivals get together. Ashville is in the midst of a winning streak after a rather slow start and the Tigers have been having an up and down record.

Circleville fans are hoping the Tigers will be "up" again tonight so that Ashville will be turned back. Ashville fans are confident their favorites will defeat the Tigers and lengthen their win streak.

The two schools were originally scheduled to play a home and home series of games, but illness changed these plans. It was decided to play one game and hold it in Circleville.

Both teams will be much changed from the two clubs which tangled last year at Ashville, but the same intense rivalry will be there. "Chuck" Pettibone is the only Ashville regular from last season, while Jack Hennis, former Ashville player, is the only Tiger regular back.

Coach John Daugherty is expected to start Hennis, "Skeet" Smallwood, Bob Steele, Wilson Clark and Bob McCoy. On the Ashville team, coached again by L. W. Fullen, probably will be Pettibone, Speakman, Woodworth, Trego and Thomas.

Reserve teams of the two schools are scheduled to open tonight's festivities with a game at 7 o'clock.

LEONARD WANTS TO HELP BUILD AMERICAN YOUTH

NEW YORK, Feb. 5—Cmdr. Benny Leonard of the U. S. maritime service, returning to civilian life today, plans to campaign vigorously throughout the country for more attention to the physical welfare of the nation's youth.

The former lightweight champion, who taught calisthenics and boxing to more than 100,000 men during his three and a half years in the maritime service, emphasizes "the appalling fact that there were more than 5,000,000 American males classified as 4-F's during the recent war."

Interviewed in his suite at the Bretteau Hall hotel, Leonard said he would do his bit to awaken the nation to the necessity of building sturdy bodies by making a lengthy lecture tour. He plans to start on the tour about March 4.

He said, "my experiences with thousands of young men while I was director of physical fitness, recreation and morale at Hoffman Island and at Sheepshead Bay, convinced me that our youngsters are not to blame because they have not developed properly physically."

"The fault lies in other quarters. Too many of them have lacked the opportunity, the incentive and the instruction. Under proper conditions, such as we had in the maritime service, they took to exercise and competitive athletics like ducks to water. On my lecture tour, I will try to interest various organizations in the different communities in encouraging physical development—men's clubs, parent organizations, and the like."

NEWS Behind the NEWS

Bricker is a good bet to come to the senate this year, the knowing Republicans agree. With Stassen he is at the top of private party polls now. His '44 difficulty was that he tried to run a campaign with Ohio friends who had not been active in politics. The Dewey people and the New York know-how. With the best of publicity success in his senate race or later in that forum, his chances will depend on whether he can get an organization to match the one now quickly coalescing behind Stassen—or which Dewey may set up if events this year warrant.

The not-very-dark horse is Taft. The Ohio senator is certainly the outstanding spokesman in the party today. The attack upon him by the Oregon senator Wayne Morse (elected with CIO support) bogged down. There is no senate Republican group associated with Morse, although three or four other Republican senators might vote with him now and then. A CIO movement in the Republican party does not seem to be in the cards.

GALENTO WANTS TO FIGHT LOUIS

Two-Ton Says He Is Ready To 'Stiffen The Bum' In A Free Fight

ORANGE, N. J., Feb. 5.—The little fat man still thinks he can chain black lightning.

Tony Galento, the old two-ton guy who now comes closer to weighing three, made that clear today as he challenged Joe Louis to give him another crack at the world heavyweight championship.

"I'll stiffen the bum if he ever gives me another chance," Galento proclaimed with all his old-time modesty.

"I shoulda did it before, too," quoth the man who quit school when he was in "advanced eight grade."

Galento, the belligerent bartender, was very serious. Waving arms that protruded like the flippers on a penguin, the barrel who walks like a man declared that it was a matter of honor. Tony doesn't need the money, it says here.

"I'll fight him for free," Tony roared. "I'm not trying to capulize (Galentism) on my fighting ability. I'll take the bum on for veterans' rehabilitation (more Galentism)."

Tony, who still trains on beer and fat, black cigars, drew himself five more schooners and admitted he was in "good shape right now."

"I been refereeing all over and I play handball every day. I'm home here in Orange," Galento declared. "I'm in the pink."

What does Tony weigh? Willie (The Beard) Glizenberg, his agent, claims the fat man tips the beam at two pounds less than a horse.

"That ain't so, at all," roared Tony. "But I guess I weigh about 270 pounds."

Training Tony is somewhat of a problem, Willie revealed as Tony stepped to the front to help five ragging customers to the sidewalk.

"I had him in the gym and I got him down to 250, once," The Beard sighed. "So that afternoon Tony drinks 18 bottles of beer and eats six southern fried chickens, honest, and he's right back where we started."

That appetite has upholed an additional 37 pounds onto Tony's beach-ball frame since the June night in 1939 when Galento rocked Louis before being kayoed in the fourth round.

In the Southern section, Chillicothe held sway at 70.7 trailed by Middletown, Northridge of Dayton, Troy and Hamilton Catholic, 63.3; and Canton Township, 63.2. In that order, to round out the ten top teams in the ratings, which are based on cumulative records to date.

Following Benedictine among the state-wide leaders were Chillicothe, 70.9; Middletown, 70.3; Northridge of Dayton, 67.4; Columbiana, 67.1; Lehman of Canton, 66.1; Troy, 65.7; Warren, 63.4; Hamilton Catholic, 63.3; and Canton Township, 63.2. In that order, to round out the ten top teams in the ratings, which are based on cumulative records to date.

Benedictine's rating of 73.9 means that it is 73 potential points stronger than the weakest team in Ohio, and all teams can be compared on this basis.

Major change of the week was Lehman's increase of 5.9 points to advance to sixth position in the team standing.

In the second 10 are: Marietta, 62.7, minus 1.3; Eaton, 61.6, plus 1.8; Norwalk, 61.5, plus 1.8; Euclid Shore, 61.3, plus 1.3; Rossford, 61.3, plus 0.6; Fairmont, 61.1, plus 1.2; Dover, 60.8, minus 0.2; McKinley, 60.5, 0.8; Sandusky, 60.3, 0.0; Ashabula, 60.2, plus 0.5.

Southern sectional leaders besides the first five: Marietta, 62.7; Eaton, 61.6; Fairmont, Dayton, 61.1; Worthington, 58.6; Bacon, 58.4; Newark, 57.9; Walnut Hills, Cinn., 57.7; Ashville, 56.8; Tiltonsville, 56.2; Hamilton, 55.6; Cedarville, 55.2; New Boston, 55.4; Logan, 55.2; South Charleston, 54.8; Franklin, 54.7.

Shaugnessy coached at Maryland in 1942, but moved to Pitt the next season. His tenure at Pitt was a stormy one, and climaxed last fall when Bobby Hoel, Doc Hartwig and Stan Glenn, his assistants, told athletic director Jimmy Hagan they would quit if Shaugnessy continued as head coach. They said Shaugnessy was inconsistent, insincere, impersonal toward the players, and that they disliked his method of teaching.

Maryland officials, who did not reveal the terms or the length of Shaugnessy's contract, said he would arrive Friday for a luncheon meeting with the athletic board and football team, and then would take a two-week vacation.

Spring football will start when he returns.

He will choose his own assistants, a university spokesman said.

COLUMBUS MAN HONORED

Eighty-six-year-old John Pfeiffer and his hometown, Columbus, will be the first honored on the new format of the Morton Downey program giving national recognition to "Big, Little American" men and women, who are unselfishly making outstanding contributions to the welfare of their fellow man. The Downey program, which has more outlets on the air than any other, as it starts its fourth year Wednesday with the new plan.

John or "Dad" Pfeiffer, as an orphan started selling newspapers on the streets of Columbus at the age of 10 to earn his room and board. Now an honored businessman, Pfeiffer has always worked to bring comfort to orphans. Among other activities, he was one of the founders of the Charity Newsies. The organization is composed of prominent Columbus citizens, now successful businessmen who were newsies during their youth. Once each year these men return to their former corners to peddle a special newspaper edition for as much as five and ten dollars a

21 DEATHS IN OHIO RECORDED OVER WEEK END

By United Press

Tragedy, stark and naked, was recorded in Ohio on the fourth weekend of the year as fires and accidents took at least 21 lives and more than two-score persons were injured.

A flash fire in Cleveland Saturday had claimed a total of 13 persons who were being cared for in the Jennings Hall home for the aged. Eight other persons are in hospitals and many injured are being cared for in homes.

In Columbus, two students at Ohio State University plunged over a 60 foot cliff during a pre-dawn hike Sunday. University officials are seeking to learn if the hike was a part of the initiation of the youths, pledges to the Sigma Chi fraternity.

William E. Lewis, Jr., 22, is in a hospital from injuries suffered in the plunge and Robert B. Brooks, also 22, is being treated at home.

A fire at Franklin claimed the lives of two persons.

The body of Edward Morgan, of Trinway, was found early Sunday morning on the Pennsylvania railroad tracks near that town. He had apparently been run over by several passenger trains.

Three persons were killed in Cleveland in week-end traffic accidents.

COLUMBUS MAN HONORED

Eighty-six-year-old John Pfeiffer and his hometown, Columbus, will be the first honored on the new format of the Morton Downey program giving national recognition to "Big, Little American" men and women, who are unselfishly making outstanding contributions to the welfare of their fellow man. The Downey program, which has more outlets on the air than any other, as it starts its four year Wednesday with the new plan.

John or "Dad" Pfeiffer, as an orphan started selling newspapers on the streets of Columbus at the age of 10 to earn his room and board. Now an honored businessman, Pfeiffer has always worked to bring comfort to orphans. Among other activities, he was one of the founders of the Charity Newsies. The organization is composed of prominent Columbus citizens, now successful businessmen who were newsies during their youth. Once each year these men return to their former corners to peddle a special newspaper edition for as much as five and ten dollars a

11 Directors Elected By Circleville Chamber of Commerce

TWO RE-ELECTED AS 55 MEMBERS CAST BALLOTS

C of C Officers To Be Named At Friday Meeting Of Old, New Directors

Winners in the hotly-contested election of new directors for the Circleville Chamber of Commerce were announced at the directors' meeting in Betz's restaurant Monday.

New directors for the organization are as follows: Joseph Burns, Vaden Couch, Ben H. Gordon, Herschel Hill, Donald Henkle, H. K. "Bill" Lanman, John Magill, Leslie D. May, Fritz Sieverts, Clark Will and James Yost.

Mayor Gordon and Mr. Hill were both re-elected having served the previous term.

Mr. Yost and Mr. Burns served as directors before going into the Army and Navy, respectively.

Mr. Will, Mr. Sieverts and Mr. May also have served previous terms.

More interest was shown in the election than in any other previous election, Mack Parrett, secretary, declared. Fifty-five persons of the 64 to whom ballots were sent voted in the election, he said. Ted Lewis, the 65th member of the Chamber of Commerce does not vote.

The new directors will meet with the old in a special meeting Friday noon at Betz's for the purpose of electing new officers and to transact business relating to the purchase of a plot of ground in the south end of town for the purpose of providing lots for new low-cost housing for Circleville. FHA approval of the project will be sought.

The annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be held the night of February 19 at Betz's. A banquet will be held and an outstanding speaker is promised. The annual reports of the secretary and treasurer will be presented.

C. O. WILSON, COLUMBUS SEEKS SENATORIAL POST

Charles O. Wilson, a senior accountant for the Curtis-Wright Corporation today announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for state senator in the 10th senatorial district (Franklin and Pickaway Counties).

With a background of over 25 years of technical and administrative experience (railroad worker, state examiner, and public accountant) Mr. Wilson stated that he planned to make his appeal to the electorate as a representative of all the people and not of any group.

Mr. Wilson, a disabled veteran of World War I, who resides at 410 E. 13th Avenue, Columbus, is married and has two grown daughters, one a graduate of Ohio State University, the other a senior at Ohio State.

ASHVILLE

L. W. Fullen and Charles W. Fortner attended the meeting of Philos Lodge 64 in Circleville Monday when the Knight Rank was conferred.

Ashville High's basketball team expects one of its toughest games of the season Friday when it meets the Deer Creek township team at Williamsport. Ashville is the favorite, but local teams seldom appear at advantage on the long, narrow Williamsport floor.

The Knight Rank will be conferred at a supper meeting of Palmetto Lodge Wednesday. The supper will be served at 6:30 and will be followed by the initiation ceremonies.

T/Cpl. Leroy Berry arrived at New York Wednesday and in Ashville Thursday on 30 day furlough. Cpl. Berry has been in the U. S. Army for the past three years and served 14 months overseas. He was recently stationed at the Linz hospital near Vienna, Austria.

Harold L. Hoover is enrolled at Ohio State for the Winter quarter under the G. I. "Bill of Rights".

Sgt. Maurice Clum, who has been stationed at Vienna, Austria, is expected home in the near future.
